About the Scholar:

Ustadh Halim entered Islam in 1996 and began studying classical Islamic studies formally in 1998. He studied under many prominent Shuyukh including Sheikh Al-Hassan Al-Kettani.

His quest for knowledge extended across the world in places such as Syria, Morocco, and Malaysia. He studied Arabic in the University of Abu Noor in Damascus and traveled to Malaysia where he studied at the Cordoba Academy for Classical Islamic studies. He was distinguished there in being the first to graduate the Hafidh Ibn Hajar Al-Asqalani Hadith program receiving license to teach (Ijaaza Tadrīs) from them.

Currently, Ustadh Haleem resides in Baltimore, MD with his wife and nine children, where he teaches in his local community.
